

A metallic print photograph by Charleston artist Deborah Herndon is on display at The Loft Gallery, in Occoquan, Va.

Charleston artist in Va.

OCCOQUAN, Va. — Deborah D. Herndon will be the featured artist at The Loft Gallery through July 3 with “Architecture Talks: Doors and Details in Metallic Photographs.”

Herndon’s works include original metallic print photographs of architectural details and artifacts taken across France, Spain and the United States. The images “freeze frame” details that reflect the culture of those who created them. The metallic print process saturates color slightly and adds an unexpected third dimension. All of the prints are limited edition (29), titled, numbered, and signed.

Herndon’s interest in architectural details and cultural artifacts stems from her background in urban planning and law. Ten percent of her profits support organizations that provide micro financing to less-advantaged women starting businesses from their homes.
